Quipu (also spelled khipu), or talking knots, were recording devices fashioned from strings historically used by a number of cultures in the region of Andean South America.. Knotted strings were used by many other cultures such as the ancient Chinese and native Hawaiians, but such practices should not be confused with the quipu, which refers only to the Andean device.

When cheap solar is expensive Badly installed solar PV makes Australia’s grid fragile. On August 25 last year there was nearly a system blackout when, improbably, three states of Australia were islanded by one lightning strike. Within seconds, trips were switching, two smelters were load shed to save the grid from collapse, and across the Eastern Seaboard of Australia frequency and voltages ...
